N. P. -- G. N. CONSOLIDATION PLAN NEBULOUS

NO DISPOSITION YET MADE OF THE TERMINALS

NOR OF WAREHOUSES, DEPOTS OF THE TWO NORTHERN RAILWAYS

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE & PACIFIC RY. MAY OPPOSE THE PROPOSED MERGER

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP) — Developments centering in St. Paul are expected to foretell within the next few days whether the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad will go before the interstate commerce commission to oppose the plan for consolidating the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads into one great system.

The merger plans have progressed no further than they had in New York City one week ago, Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, admitted today.

When asked whether it had been determined what disposition would be made of terminals, warehouses and depots of the two Northerns, Donnelly explained that development of the unification plan had not reached the stage where these considerations had been discussed.

This means that the negotiations are in a preliminary state and the plans still nebulous. The known details are that a holding company would be formed to take over the stock of the two Northerns, and that in addition to control through such ownership, it is intended to lease the lines of the two Northerns to an operating carrier which also would operate the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railway. Beyond that, there are a multitude of details yet to be settled.

One important quesion is whether the Burlington eventually would be joined with the two Northerns, which now control it.

It is known that the preliminaries are being conducted carefully and slowly in order that the plans as finally worked out will be acceptable to the interstate commerce commission.

The principle potential obstacle to the consolidation is the possible objection of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad, which several years ago expressed its desire to be merged with the Great Northern. This grouping was approved in a suggestion by the I. C. C. which placed the Burlington and Northern Pacific in another group.

Protest against this I. C. C. plan was made at the time by the two Northerns and the Burlington. These three lines argued that they had a community of interest which should not be broken up.

Without modifying its original suggestion, the I. C. C. reached no decision on the Burlington-Northerns plea.

Since then the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has had "Pacific" added to its name as a result of its sale to representatives of Kuhn, Loeb & Company and the National City Bank, but H. E. Byram, formerly president and later co-receiver, is still the Milwaukee's acting president and operating head. It was Byram who favored strengthening the Milwaukee by joining it with the Great Northern.

Because of these elements, railroad circles here are interested in the attitude that the Milwaukee will take on the proposed merger and are awaiting some move by Byram.

MEN, AND NOT BUILDINGS, FIRST CONSIDERATION

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Men, not buildings, should be the first consideration in the expansion program of the University of Minnesota, Governor Theodore Christianson told the board of regents late Monday.

Salary increases should be given professors before the board turns to major building ventures, the executive said. He pointed to the construction activities of schools throughout the country which, he said, were conducted at the expense of the taxpayer and which will be brought to a halt when the people find the burden too heavy.

The governor declared faculty salaries could be increased as golf courses could be purchased and additional buildings erected. He obviously referred to the expansion program of the past year which included the acquisition of golf grounds.

The regents, in regular annual meeting, considered the proposal of the Carnegie Foundation which paves the way for the gift of a new library on the campus.

CLASSIC OF THE NORTHLAND DRAWS CROWDS

EMIL ST. GODARD LEADING AND SETTING FURIOUS PACE

The Pas, Man., Jan. 25.—(UP)—With the thermometer shrunk to forty degrees below zero, The Pas' annual dog derby started here today when six teams mushed along the eight-mile course that will be circled five times on each of the three days of the event.

Emil St. Godard with a team of eight huskies was leading at the eight-mile mark which he reached in 35 minutes.

If St. Godard continues the fierce pace he is setting for the others, he will shatter all world's records for dog racing. His animals were in excellent condition.

Harry Olensky, in second place, and Leo St. Godard, in third, were close behind Emil and forcing him all the way to hold his scant lead, according to word from the first reporting station.

U. S. TO PROTECT AMERICAN LIVES, PROPERTY IN CHINA

Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—President Coolidge has decided to protect in every way possible American lives and property in China. He expects the state department soon to announce this government's policy toward the so-called "unequal treaties with China, it was announced today at the White House on the president's behalf.

The White House revelations followed closely upon the house foreign relations committee's action in favorably reporting the modified Porter resolution, calling upon the president to undertake negotiations for revision of the treaties.

VICTORIOUS TROOPS OF SOUTH CHINA CONVERGE UPON THAT CITY

40,000 FOREIGNERS THERE HAVE SOUGHT SAFETY IN CONCESSIONS

London, Jan. 25.—(UP)—While Great Britain masses troops in one of her greatest military movements since the world war, Major General John Duncan, hero of the ill-fated Gallipoli expedition, prepared to sail to assume command of the thousands of British troops now in Shanghai or en route to its defense.

Accelerated by reports of the convergence of the victorious troops of South China upon Shanghai, where 40,000 foreigners have sought safety in concessions, the war department and the government have jointly evolved a broad military program to meet what is generally conceded to be an impending crisis.

Announcement of the sailing of Duncan and the assembling of a force of British soldiers for overseas service came simultaneously with the scheduling of a special cabinet meeting for tomorrow, the suggestion that the opening of parliament be advanced to Feb. 8 because of the threatening siuation in China and the centering of all governmental interest in the conversations between Foreign Minister Chen of South China and British Counsellor O'Malley.

A total of 16,000 troops have been ordered for service in China, the war department announced. They comprise three brigades, an armored car company, auxiliary machine gun, artillery and airplane units. All are fully equipped for service in the far east.

General Duncan insisted, however, that the sailing of British forces is essentially a precautionary movement.

"I do not anticipate that the Cantonese will enter Shanghai before my arrival there February 26," he said.

The recent victory of the Cantonese near Ning Po which has put them in a position for a direct drive upon Shanghai, official quarters feel, has thrust upon the war office and the admiralty the necessity of prompt action.

The British cabinet, after conferences on Chinese policy, was understood to have decided upon a dual policy for China:

First, conciliatory negotiations with the Cantonese for an agreement without resort to arms.

Secondly, a determination to defend its concessions in Shanghai and throughout China at any costs.

O'Malley, who thus far has received from Chen only the demand that all foreigners evacuate all concessions, has been instructed to make certain specific offers to the Chinese. If the offers are accepted, the danger may be removed without bloodshed.

The government was concentrating enough troops to insure adequate defense of the 21 mile front of British concessions and to guarantee the removal of British residents scattered through the country.

The suddenness of the British movement was explained by experts as due to the fact that the Cantonese were marching upon Shanghai while it takes eight weeks for British forces to reach there from England and three weeks from India. Should a sudden emergency develop, additional reinforcements would be sent from India.

Thus, the situation today was a race between peace and war, with O'Malley bending his efforts to reach an agreement or stave off danger by prolonged negotiations until British troops arrive.

The British defense in Shanghai alone will consist of the following units:

The thirteenth infantry brigade, composed of the Duke of Cambridge's Own, the first battalion of the Middlesex regiments; the first battalion of the Cameronian Scottish Rifles; the first battalion of the Border regiment; the first battalion of Green Howards; the Prince of Wales' Own; the fourteenth infantry brigade, composed of the second battalion of Coldstream Guards; the first battalion of the Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire regiments.

Also, the second battalion of the Border regiment; the first battalion of the Devonshire regiment; the twentieth Indian infantry; a brigade composed of the second battalion of the Durham light infanrty; the first, second, third, fourth and fourteenth Punjab regiments; also an armored car company, auxiliary services and two detachments of the Royal Air Service.

Those troops will reinforce the marine units already on the seas toward China and will be used in a general defense army, with Shanghai as an operating base.

England has assumed a martial aspect reminiscent of the days of the world war. A thousand marines and air force detachments, who were scheduled to sail yesterday on the steamer Minnesota, today awaited the lifting of the fog that will permit that vessel to leave Antwerp.

The 12,000 ton Aberdeen liner Herminius, now in London, was understood to have been requisitioned to carry troops and the Peninsular and Oriental liners, now in Southampton, with two commandeered Union Castle liners, were scheduled to sail for China this week.

Meanwhile, all England was watching what course the United States will take in protecting its own citizens. The dispatch of marines to the Philippines and reported concentration at San Diego has aroused the greatest interest. Public and official opinion, divided between approval and criticism of the far-flung military movements, awaited official promise of support from the United States and Japan.

Tokio, Jan. 25.—Japan today notified the British, French and Belgian ambassadors that Japanese marines or troops would not be landed at Shanghai. The charge d' affaires representing Soviet Russia also was notified.

London, Jan. 25. — The Peking correspondent of The Daily News has learned from reliable sources that Australia and New Zealand, cognizant of the government's need of speed in transporing troops to China, has offered military forces for use in the emergency.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Without a negative vote, the house foreign affairs committee today ordered a favorable report on the revised Porter resolution equesting the president to negotiate revision of the unequal treaties with China.

The resolution suggess negotiation of new treaties "which shall take the place of the treaties now in force between the two countries which provide for the exercise in China of American extra-territorial or jurisdicional rights or limit her full autonomy with reference to the levying of customs, dues or other taxes."

After referring to the recent British memorandum urging modification of the treaties, the White House spokesman said the state department within a day or two will make a statement defining this government's attitude towards the treaties.

It will not apply to the protection of American lives and property in the present emergency, it was said.

The president wants it understood there is wide difference between the positions of Great Britain and the United States in China. The British have concessions there and this government has not, it was explained.

American policy regarding protection of American lives and property in China remains the same as previously outlined and this government is doing everything it can to protect them, he spokesman emphasized.

The vast extent of the territory adds to the difficulties of affording protection, it was said.

At Shanghai, where 4,000 Americans live, the U. S. has armed forces which will attempt to protect these Americans from disorders and mob violence, the spokesman added.

A detachment of 300 marines will leave Guam Island for the Philippines tomorrow aboard the U. S. S. Gold Star, the navy announced today. The marines presumably are for service in China.

FRENCH FRANC NOW PRACTICALLY STABILIZED TODAY

Paris, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The French franc, which seemed to be on the road to worthlessness six months ago, was practically stabilized today, Premier Poincare told the finance committee of the chamber of deputies when he appeared before it to report on his stewardship of French finances.

Poincare said the franc had practically been stabilized at 122 to the pound sterling.

Poincare told the committee that France now possesses a reserve fund greater than the Morgan loan and also had sufficient foreign monies to pay the interest on the exterior debts in 1927.

The franc, normally worth 19.3 cents, was quoted at 3.95 cents today.

FORCIBLE ENTRY TO SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES IN HOLLYWOOD

GOVERNMENT LIEN OF $1,000,000 TIES UP KNOWN ASSETS OF CHAPLIN

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 25. — (UP)—The new "gold rush" that had its inception with the filing of a divorce complaint by Lita Grey Chaplin against her comedian husband, Charles Chaplin, and was subsequently stopped when Uncle Sam "jumped" the claims of the leading figures, was on again today.

Further efforts to unearth assets of the comedian may take the form of forcible entry to safety deposit boxes in Hollywood and Los Angeles banks, attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin declared today.

Although a government lien of more than $1,000,000 has tied up all of Chaplin's known assets in the state of California, counsel for the comedian's wife said the receivers were properly authorized to seek records of property and money believed to be hidden here.

Local offices of the Van Sweringens refused to confirm or deny the rumors in the absence of C. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, who are in New York.

The reports were credited in well informed financial quarters with being the cause fo marked activity in Van Sweringen stocks today. This was the highest price for the last ten years.

U. S. TO PROTECT AMERICAN LIVES, PROPERTY IN CHINA

Washington, Jan. 25.— (UP) — President Coolidge has decided to protect in every way possible American lives and property in China. He expects the state department soon to announce this government's policy toward the so-called "unequal treaties with China, it was announced today at the White House on the president's behalf.

The White House revelations followed closely upon the house foreign relations committee's action in favorably reporting the modified Porter resolution, calling upon the president to undertake negotiations for revision of the treaties.

40,000 FOREIGNERS THERE HAVE SOUGHT SAFETY IN CONCESSIONS

London, Jan. 25.—(UP)—While Great Britain masses troops in one of her greatest military movements since the world war, Major General John Duncan, hero of the ill-fated Gallipoli expedition, prepared to sail to assume command of the thousands of British troops now in Shanghai or en route to its defense.

Accelerated by reports of the convergence of the victorious troops of South China upon Shanghai, where 40,000 foreigners have sought safety in concessions, the war department and the government have jointly evolved a broad military program to meet what is generally conceded to be an impending crisis.

Announcement of the sailing of Duncan and the assembling of a force of British soldiers for overseas service came simultaneously with the scheduling of a special cabinet meeting for tomorrow, the suggestion that the opening of parliament be advanced to Feb. 8 because of the threatening siuation in China and the centering of all governmental interest in the conversations between Foreign Minister Chen of South China and British Counsellor O'Malley.

A total of 16,000 troops have been ordered for service in China, the war department announced. They comprise three brigades, an armored car company, auxiliary machine gun, artillery and airplane units. All are fully equipped for service in the far east.

General Duncan insisted, however, that the sailing of British forces is essentially a precautionary movement.

"I do not anticipate that the Cantonese will enter Shanghai before my arrival there February 26," he said.

The recent victory of the Cantonese near Ning Po which has put them in a position for a direct drive upon Shanghai, official quarters feel, has thrust upon the war office and the admiralty the necessity of prompt action.

The British cabinet, after conferences on Chinese policy, was understood to have decided upon a dual policy for China:

First, conciliatory negotiations with the Cantonese for an agreement without resort to arms.

Secondly, a determination to defend its concessions in Shanghai and throughout China at any costs.

O'Malley, who thus far has received from Chen only the demand that all foreigners evacuate all concessions, has been instructed to make certain specific offers to the Chinese. If the offers are accepted, the danger may be removed without bloodshed.

The government was concentrating enough troops to insure adequate defense of the 21 mile front of British concessions and to guarantee the removal of British residents scattered through the country.

The suddenness of the British movement was explained by experts as due to the fact that the Cantonese were marching upon Shanghai while it takes eight weeks for British forces to reach there from England and three weeks from India. Should a sudden emergency develop, additional reinforcements would be sent from India.

Thus, the situation today was a race between peace and war, with O'Malley bending his efforts to reach an agreement or stave off danger by prolonged negotiations until British troops arrive.

The British defense in Shanghai alone will consist of the following units:

The thirteenth infantry brigade, composed of the Duke of Cambridge's Own, the first battalion of the Middlesex regiments; the first battalion of the Cameronian Scottish Rifles; the first battalion of the Border regiment; the first battalion of Green Howards; the Prince of Wales' Own; the fourteenth infantry brigade, composed of the second battalion of Coldstream Guards; the first battalion of the Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire regiments.

Also, the second battalion of the Border regiment; the first battalion of the Devonshire regiment; the twentieth Indian infantry; a brigade composed of the second battalion of the Durham light infanrty; the first, second, third, fourth and fourteenth Punjab regiments; also an armored car company, auxiliary services and two detachments of the Royal Air Service.

Those troops will reinforce the marine units already on the seas toward China and will be used in a general defense army, with Shanghai as an operating base.

England has assumed a martial aspect reminiscent of the days of the world war. A thousand marines and air force detachments, who were scheduled to sail yesterday on the steamer Minnesota, today awaited the lifting of the fog that will permit that vessel to leave Antwerp.

The 12,000 ton Aberdeen liner Herminius, now in London, was understood to have been requisitioned to carry troops and the Peninsular tand Oriental liners, now in Southampton, with two commandeered Union Castle liners, were scheduled to sail for China this week.

Meanwhile, all England was watching what course the United States will take in protecting its own citizens. The dispatch of marines to the Philippines and reported concentration at San Diego has aroused the greatest nterest. Public and official opinion, divided between approval and criticism of the far-flung military movements, awaited official promise of support from the United States and Japan.

Tokio, Jan. 25.—Japan today notified the British, French and Belgian ambassadors that Japanese marines or troops would not be landed at Shanghai. The charge d' affaires representing Soviet Russia also was notified.

London, Jan. 25. — The Peking correspondent of The Daily News has learned from reliable sources that Australia and New Zealand, cognizant of the government's need of speed in transporing troops to China, has offered military forces for use in the emergency.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Without a negative vote, the house foreign affairs committee today ordered a favorable report on the revised Porter resolution equesting the president to negotiate revision of the unequal treaties with China.

The resolution suggess negotiation of new treaties "which shall take the place of the treaties now in force between the two countries which provide for the exercise in China of American extra-territorial or jurisdicional rights or limit her full autonomy with reference to the levying of customs, dues or other taxes."

After referring to the recent British memorandum urging modification of the treaties, the White House spokesman said the state department within a day or two will make a statement defining this government's attitude towards the treaties.

It will not apply to the protection of American lives and property in the present emergency, it was said.

The president wants it understood there is wide difference between the positions of Great Britain and the United States in China. The British have concessions there and this government has not, it was explained.

American policy regarding protection of American lives and property in China remains the same as previously outlined and this government is doing everything it can to protect them, he spokesman emphasized.

The vast extent of the territory adds to the difficulties of affording protection, it was said.

At Shanghai, where 4,000 Americans live, the U. S. has armed forces which will attempt to protect these Americans from disorders and mob violence, the spokesman added.

A detachment of 300 marines will leave Guam Island for the Philippines tomorrow aboard the U. S. S. Gold Star, the navy announced today. The marines presumably are for service in China.

FRENCH FRANC NOW PRACTICALLY STABILIZED TODAY

Paris, Jan. 25.— (UP) — The French franc, which seemed to be on the road to worthlessness six months ago, was practically stabilized today, Premier Poincare told the finance committee of the chamber of deputies when he appeared before it to report on his stewardship of French finances.

Poincare said the franc had practically been stabilized at 122 to the pound sterling.

Poincare told the committee that France now possesses a reserve fund greater than the Morgan loan and also had sufficient foreign monies to pay the interest on the exterior debts in 1927.

The franc, normally worth 19.3 cents, was quoted at 3.95 cents today.

GOVERNMENT LIEN OF $1,000,000 TIES UP KNOWN ASSETS OF CHAPLIN

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 25. — (UP)—The new "gold rush" that had its inception with the filing of a divorce complaint by Lita Grey Chaplin against her comedian husband, Charles Chaplin, and was subsequently stopped when Uncle Sam "jumped" the claims of the leading figures, was on again today.

Further efforts to unearth assets of the comedian may take the form of forcible entry to safety deposit boxes in Hollywood and Los Angeles banks, attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin declared today.

Although a government lien of more than $1,000,000 has tied up all of Chaplin's known assets in the state of California, counsel for the comedian's wife said the receivers were properly authorized to seek records of property and money believed to be hidden here.

THIRSTY CITIZENS SEEK PHYSICIANS

Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Thirsty citizens are turning more and more to physicians for liquor prescriptions, now that the federal dry army has stopped other prohibition leaks, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews told the Women's Christian Temperance Union convention here today. He pleaded for support of his proposal for a government-controlled private corporation to manufacture medicinal whiskey.

NEW BILLION DOLLAR NICKLE PLATE MERGER

Cleveland, O., Jan. 25.—(UP) — Reports that the new billion dollar Nickle Plate merger plans of the Van Sweringen interests is to be announced in Washington following the close of the stock market today, were persistently circulated here.

Local offices of the Van Sweringens refused to confirm or deny the rumors in the absence of C. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, who are in New York.

The reports were credited in well informed financial quarters with being the cause fo marked activity in Van Sweringen stocks today. Erie issues, which are expected to benefit materially as a result of the merger, if approved, hit new highs at noon today, Erie common reaching 43¾. This was the highest price for the last ten years.

LABORER HAS FEET FROZEN

Minneapolis, Jan. 25. — (UP) — John Kelly, 56, a laborer, was in a hospital here today with frozen feet, which doctors say may have to be amputated.

Kelly walked here from Anoka yesterday and was not aware that his feet were frozen. When he arose this morning from a bed in a hotel he was unable to walk. He was taken to a hospital where doctors have kept a close watch, prepared to amputate the frozen members if the man's life is in the balance.

Mexican Rebels Rob Train

Mexico City, Jan. 25.—(UP)—After three unsuccessful attempts during the past ten days a band of Rebels was reported to have stopped the fast Mexico City-Laredo train, routed the guard of federal troops, killed one person and stolen $75,000.

A letachment of fedral cavalry has been sent in pursuit of the bandits. The holdup, which was boldly executed, occurred yesterday at Huichapan, in the state of Hidalgo, about forty miles from the capital.

A viola found in Edinburgh, Scotland, has a body 17½ inches long, or 2½ inches longer than the average viola. It was made by Hieronumous Amati, the master of Stradivarius.

Heat in Resinous Woods

Resinous woods, like pine and fir, have greater heating value per ton than nonresinous woods, because a pound of resin gives off about twice as much heat on burning as a pound of wood.

COMPENSATORY CANCELLATION

THE suggestion that the United States forgive its European debtors their debts in return for guaranties that in doing so it would not be furnishing the means of preparing for another world war is revived by Professor Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell, who is convinced that these debts will never be paid. Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, writing from Paris in advocacy of compensatory cancellation, goes even further. "When we move," writes Mr. Villard, "let us demand and get in return such things as disarmament, the abolition of poison gas, the submarine, the war airplane, and other things we have a right to ask, since in these inventions of the devil lie not only the seeds of other wars but the genuine possibilities of the complete destruction of our modern civilization."

Assuming that these inventions of the devil contain the menace ascribed by Mr. Villard to them, what hope has this country of obtaining their abolition, against the revealed determination of the greater part of Europe not to reduce its armaments? We can't force disarmament without fighting half of Europe. We can scarcely hope to purchase disarmament by the cancellation of debts which the advocates of attempting to do so assert Europe does not intend to pay anyway. The United States could afford to cancel every debt owed it in Europe on account of the war in return for reasonable guaranties of permanent world peace. An insuperable obstacle to any such transaction is the impossibility of obtaining guaranties of that sort, as the futile disarmament parleys at Geneva during the past summer amply show.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

THE OLD-FASHIONED STOMACH

FRED SCHILPLIN in his St. Cloud Daily Times calls attention to the functions of an organ fed on old fashioned diet which finds no delight in some of the modern stuff dished out. Says the editorial:

There are so many gee-gaws and new fangled ways of preparing things to eat these days that the man with an old-fashioned stomach sometimes feels himself distinctly out of luck.

A friend of ours went home the other night and surprised his wife and scared the children by demanding, in loud and raucous tones, a mess of parched corn. That was 'way after supper, of course, and at the hour when the newspaper had been thoroughly digested and strewn about the floor, lessons all studied, darning done and the evening cigar smoked.

There are probably dozens of the younger readers of this paper who never even tasted parched corn. Maybe they're just as happy and well off as the youths and maidens of a few years back—yes, just a few years—but we doubt it.

Popcorn, too, has been diverted from the old ways it used to follow. Now you never get it but it's salted. Then it appeared in big, gleaming balls of whiteness, and 'twas sweet. The stuff was stuck together with clear maple molasses—or if there wasn't any of that, sorghum molasses would do. Popcorn balls and rosy apples, white taffy and ginger snaps, soft cider and doughnuts—they all used to taste pretty good on any evening.

CONVENTIONS IN BRAINERD

IN spite of cold weather, Brainerd has been the scene of conventions in January. Last year the State Dairymen's Association with its butter and cheese contests was one of the notable gatherings of the year.

This year the Standard Oil Company agents and salesmen of a section of the Duluth district had a well attended two-days' convention at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and were well pleased with the courtesies and attentions shown them.

This Tuesday and Wednesday a large church convention gathers at Clara Lutheran church, bringing many ministers and lay delegates for a conference which will be productive of much good. Rev. August Samuelson, of Clara Lutheran church, is the president of the Brainerd District of this conference.

A meeting of a county-wide organization, the Garden and Flower society, will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms this week.

And an outdoor convention, continuous in its performance, requiring no four walls for a gathering place, only decent ice and the wide arched heavens for a ceiling, is our Outdoor Sports club rink. All manner of outdoor sport is thriving vastly and bringing the glow of health to the cheeks of all participants.

McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

THE McNary-Haugen bill now before Congress is not the same bill that was introduced about a year ago.

As stated by the National Farm News, the bill now before Congress and which was introduced into the Senate December 16, 1926, has been changed in quite a few instances. The method of nomination by Farm Organizations, the price fixing method, the question of equalization fee, are changed. The embargo provision is stricken out.

MANY argue that it is cheaper to rent a home than to own one, says the Little Falls Daily Transcript. "Possibly, but who pays the taxes and repairs on the home in which you live if you are a renter? Is it reasonable to suppose the owner does this as an act of charity for your benefit? Hardly. When you rent, you pay the expense of keeping up the home."

IN the St. Coud Daily Journal-Press review of activities of cities is mentioned the Baltimore plan which is a private corporation organized especially to help develop the city's manufacturing concerns.

BAN JOHNSON has been given a quietus. No more will his voice be raised in loud lamentations in baseball league councils. Financially, however, he will not suffer, as his salary goes on just the same.

ST. CLOUD has an ambitious musical program for 1927. The city has taken steps to start a choral society and a symphony orchestra.

MANY a man can be a financier if he has some one else's money to operate on and some else to pay the bills.

ODD FELLOWS have instituted a lodge at Guthrie.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Jan. 23, 1902

Friends of Mrs. Frank Bell surprised her this afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. John N. Nevers, the occasion being the first anniversary of her wedding. The guests brought innumerable good things to eat and good cheer and an enjoyable afternoon prevailed. Among those present were Mesdames George Ames, F. A. Farrar, Fannie Smith, Julia McFadden, W. A. Fleming, F. W. Wieland, A. V. Snyder, H. I. Cohen, C. M. Patek, I. T. Dean, A. E. Losey, N. H. Ingersoll, Irma Hartley, and Miss Winnie Small. Mrs. Bell leaves in a few days for Hot Springs where she will join her husband on the return trip to their home at Havre, Mont.

Walker hall never presented a gayer picture than last night when some 75 or 80 members of society in the city enjoyed a dancing party given by Mr. and Mrs. George D. La-Bar. The guests vied with each other in their commendation of the manner in which they were entertained and all proclaim that it was an event which has eclipsed anything of the kind in the mid-winter social season. Graham's full orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and the light fantastic was tripped with hearty enjoyment until a late hour.

SYNOPSIS

John Ballard rises from poverty to District Attorneyship. He loves Viola Ruskin, but Fate weds her to Hardin, an old chum, now President of a great railroad and putty to Jordan, money king. Jordan's greed causes a grave wreck. John grimly purposes to put the responsible officials in jail. Phil learns Viola loves John, and threatens exposure of a college brawl in which John killed a man to protect Phil. John refuses to be coerced. John and Viola confess their hopeless love to one another. The wreck trial opens in another county seat.

One afternoon he left his office early, and, instead of going at once to Plainsville, told his driver to take him to his house, since he had need of a bag that was in his rooms there. And while he was in his room his telephone rang.

"Long distance call for Mr. Hardin," he heard, when he answered. "Transferred from your office, Mr. Hardin. Party is calling from Newton and wants you to pay for the call. Is that all right?"

"All right—yes. Hurry it up, that's all," he said, impatiently.

"Here you are—go ahead," said the operator.

A thin, strange voice sounded in his ear.

"Mr. Hardin? Mr. Philip Hardin?"

"Yes—yes. Who is this?"

"You wouldn't know the name, Mr. Hardin. I'm one who saw you a long time ago. One night in a place where the lights went out. Do you know what I mean?"

"There she is, boss," he said.

Phil was trembling with excitement.

"Yes! Yes—go on!"

"I was there, and so was another party. This other party's on his way to see you now. He gets in on the train that gets to your city at 4:45. He's going straight to your office. You'd better arrange to see him."

"Why should I?"

"You'll be sorry if you don't. Do you know who I mean by B.?"

"Yes. You mean—"

"Careful, boss. Telephones aren't so awful private, remember. This party carries a letter it'll be a good thing for you to have—see? You can have it—at a price. He'll tell you all about that. Name of Smith, this party. Better arrange to see him."

"I'll see him—of course. How much do you want?"

"He'll tell you. And if you don't want to buy there are those who will. This party, name of Smith, is going to try to see you first. Then, if he can't, he's going to see B. A word to the wise—eh, boss? And a letter in the hand's worth two in the B—what?"

"Yes—but—"

There was a click in his ear. And when, frantically, he called back to Central he got only:

"The party you were talking with has hung up."

He could only wait—wait and telephone orders to his office that if a man named Smith came, asking for him, he was to be sent to his home immediately. But his waiting was done in a fever of impatience, and, as five o'clock approached, with an eye constantly on the clock.

At last there was a ring at the front door. He answered it himself; flung open the door and saw a man standing on the step—an unprepossessing man, in shabby clothes, with a three-day stubble of black beard on his chin.

"I want to see Mr. Hardin—Mr. Philip Hardin," said the stranger.

"Come in!" said Phil. "I'm Mr. Hardin."

"Got to have proof of that, boss," said the other.

Angrily, impatiently, Phil turned out the contents of a pocket—letters, an automobile license card, identification enough to enable him to cash a check in a strange bank. The other nodded.

"Kay O, boss," he said, in a hoarse voice that spoke of much whiskey drinking. "Name of Smith. Maybe you heard by 'phone I was coming?"

"I did. Yes. What is it you want? Let me see this letter you brought?"

"Not so fast, boss. Not quite so fast."

Deliberately, and with painstaking care, Smith took a packet, wrapped in oil silk, from his pocket. From it he took two or three folded papers. One of these he tapped, significantly.

"There she is, boss," he said. "The original, dyed in the wool, genuine, itself and not a moving picture, letter! And there is a copy!"

Phil snatched at the crudely typed sheet.

"Then the lights went out, and everyone took a crack at everyone else," he read. "I got beaned on the conk, and I beat it while the beating was good. And here's the joke. They was a lot of collegers there, and one of them thought he'd killed me! And I was willing, because Pete had it in for me and was going to frame me and have me sent up. So I let them go on thinking they'd done me in, and Harry and Buck told Pete they'd pulled me out and buried me quiet, so there wouldn't be no trouble, that might get the join pulled. But I get a laugh whenever I think of that colleger thinking he'd croaked me, and being scared pink every time he seen a bull looking at him."

When he had finished reading Phil stared at Smith.

"Well!" he said. "What good does this do me?"

"Well, that's to be figured out, ain't it, boss? Suppose we think a bit first about what harm it could do you. Suppose I give this letter to John Ballard?"

Phil jumped. Their last chance gone—the one hold they had on Ballard broken! He stared.

"On the other hand—suppose you take this letter—first slipping me five thousand berries—we don't want much—just five grand. What's to stop you from putting it on the fire?"

"I see—" Phil drew a long breath. "But — even so — that doesn't bring us any nearer to proving that Ballard did kill a man."

"You think of everything, don't you, boss?" said Smith, with pretended admiration. "Well, suppose I said that for another five grand—and that's only ten in all—me and a friend of mine would go on the stand and swear we seen this Ballard croak Rudy, and that we was the guys what buried him afterward?"

"Suppose Johnson appeared and proved you were lying?"

"He won't—never fear. He's dead now, if he wasn't then. No. It's safe enough, boss. It's an open and shut case for you."

Phil hesitated. Then, abruptly, he nodded.

"Five thousand now—five thousand if and when you have to testify against Ballard?"

"Fair enough. For five grand now I slip you the letter. For five grand more me and my pal go into court whenever you give the word."

"All right." Phil reached for his checkbook. Smith threw up his hands.

"No checks, boss! Gosh—what'che thinkin' about? We don't either one of us want anyone knowing we've had this little talk, do we?"

"Right!" said Phil. "Wait—I can get the cash. Wait a minute. I'll send for it."

He went outside and called his butler. Half an hour later the man was back from the offices of the N. Y. and C. V. R. R., with fifty crisp, new hundred dollar bills. Phil counted them out; Smith handed him the original letter, greasy, folded, almost—but not quite!—undecipherable.

"All right, boss," said Smith. "Now, here's my address—this is how you reach me when you want me and my pal for this other little matter."

"Very well," said Phil. A shudder of disgust shook him as he looked at Smith. To think that he, Philip Hardin, had sunk to trafficking with so low and depraved a creature as this! However—he had no choice. Self preservation, he reminded himself, was, after all, nature's first law. "Be off, now. I'm late in starting, as it is."

"I ain't any more anxious to be seen with you than what you are to have any truck with me," said Smith. "A pretty poor lot we are, the two of us, if you ask me."

And he turned, with a contemptuous look at Phil, and left the room and the house.

Phil had received him in a small room, downstairs, used for just such casual interviews with those who called at the house on business. A gas log was in the fireplace of this room, and Phil stooped, now, and lit the gas. Then he rose, and turned to take the letter he had laid on a table, meaning to burn it without delay. What he saw made him give back a step.

NEWS— NOT PROPAGANDA!

YOU heard of propaganda during the war. Do not believe that the warfare of words has been abandoned. News-doctoring is still a weapon of old world politics. Can foreign news, gathered by foreign agencies subsidized by foreign governments be free from the taint of propaganda?

The UNITED PRESS is independent of any official or semi-official or governmentally-subsidized agencies. It has no connection nor any relation with any kind of "kept" agency anywhere.

Newspaper publishers and newspaper readers therefore have confidence in the honesty and accuracy and complete impartiality of the UNITED PRESS.

The UNITED PRESS, mind you, does not disseminate American propaganda any more than it would carry English or French or German propaganda. The world is sick of propaganda of ANY kind. It wants the facts. It wants the truth. Nothing else.

"BY UNITED PRESS" over a news-story in your newspaper is the symbol of reliable, authoritative news.

Not every newspaper has the privilege of carrying UNITED PRESS news. The UNITED PRESS newspaper of any city is the newspaper which discerning readers naturally prefer.

Now turn to the front page and note the number of UNITED PRESS dispatches. Look for that word "UNITED" in this newspaper every day.

COMPENSATORY CANCELLATION

THE suggestion that the United States forgive its European debtors their debts in return for guaranties that in doing so it would not be furnishing the means of preparing for another world war is revived by Professor Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell, who is convinced that these debts will never be paid. Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, writing from Paris in advocacy of compensatory cancellation, goes even further. "When we move," writes Mr. Villard, "let us demand and get in return such things as disarmament, the abolition of poison gas, the submarine, the war airplane, and other things we have a right to ask, since in these inventions of the devil lie not only the seeds of other wars but the genuine possibilities of the complete destruction of our modern civilization."

Assuming that these inventions of the devil contain the menace ascribed by Mr. Villard to them, what hope has this country of obtaining their abolition, against the revealed determination of the greater part of Europe not to reduce its armaments? We can't force disarmament without fighting half of Europe. We can scarcely hope to purchase disarmament by the cancellation of debts which the advocates of attempting to do so assert Europe does not intend to pay anyway. The United States could afford to cancel every debt owed it in Europe on account of the war in return for reasonable guaranties of permanent world peace. An insuperable obstacle to any such transaction is the impossibility of obtaining guaranties of that sort, as the futile disarmament parleys at Geneva during the past summer amply show.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

THE OLD-FASHIONED STOMACH

FRED SCHILFLIN in his St. Cloud Daily Times calls attention to the functions of an organ fed on old fashioned diet which finds no delight in some of the modern stuff dished out. Says the editorial:

There are so many gee-gaws and new fangled ways of preparing things to eat these days that the man with an old-fashioned stomach sometimes feels himself distinctly out of luck.

A friend of ours went home the other night and surprised his wife and scared the children by demanding, in loud and raucous tones, a mess of parched corn. That was 'way after supper, of course, and at the hour when the newspaper had been thoroughly digested and strewn about the floor, lessons all studied, darning done and the evening cigar smoked.

There are probably dozens of the younger readers of this paper who never even tasted parched corn. Maybe they're just as happy and well off as the youths and maidens of a few years back—yes, just a few years—but we doubt it.

Popcorn, too, has been diverted from the old ways it used to follow. Now you never get it but it's salted. Then it appeared in big, gleaming balls of whiteness, and 'twas sweet. The stuff was stuck together with clear maple molasses—or if there wasn't any of that, sorghum molasses would do. Popcorn balls and rosy apples, white taffy and ginger snaps, soft cider and doughnuts—they all used to taste pretty good on any evening.

CONVENTIONS IN BRAINERD

IN spite of cold weather, Brainerd has been the scene of conventions in January. Last year the State Dairymen's Association with its butter and cheese contests was one of the notable gatherings of the year.

This year the Standard Oil Company agents and salesmen of a section of the Duluth district had a well attended two-days' convention at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and were well pleased with the courtesies and attentions shown them.

This Tuesday and Wednesday a large church convention gathers at Clara Lutheran church, bringing many ministers and lay delegates for a conference which will be productive of much good. Rev. August Samuelson, of Clara Lutheran church, is the president of the Brainerd District of this conference.

A meeting of a county-wide organization, the Garden and Flower society, will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms this week.

And an outdoor convention, continuous in its performance, requiring no four walls for a gathering place, only decent ice and the wide arched heavens for a ceiling, is our Outdoor Sports club rink. All manner of outdoor sport is thriving vastly and bringing the glow of health to the cheeks of all participants.

McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

THE McNary-Haugen bill now before Congress is not the same bill that was introduced about a year ago.

As stated by the National Farm News, the bill now before Congress and which was introduced into the Senate December 16, 1926, has been changed in quite a few instances. The method of nomination by Farm Organizations, the price fixing method, the question of equalization fee, are changed. The embargo provision is stricken out.

MANY argue that it is cheaper to rent a home than to own one, says the Little Falls Daily Transcript. "Possibly, but who pays the taxes and repairs on the home in which you live if you are a renter? Is it reasonable to suppose the owner does this as an act of charity for your benefit? Hardly. When you rent, you pay the expense of keeping up the home."

IN the St. Coud Daily Journal-Press review of activities of cities is mentioned the Baltimore plan which is a private corporation organized especially to help develop the city's manufacturing concerns.

BAN JOHNSON has been given a quietus. No more will his voice be raised in loud lamentations in baseball league councils. Financially, however, he will not suffer, as his salary goes on just the same.

Friends of Mrs. Frank Bell surprised her this afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. John N. Nevers, the occasion being the first anniversary of her wedding. The guests brought innumerable good things to eat and good cheer and an enjoyable afternoon prevailed. Among those present were Mesdames George Ames, F. A. Farrar, Fannie Smith, Julia McFadden, W. A. Fleming, F. W. Wieland, A. V. Snyder, H. I. Cohen, C. M. Patek, I. T. Dean, A. E. Losey, N. H. Ingersoll, Irma Hartley, and Miss Winnie Small. Mrs. Bell leaves in a few days for Hot Springs where she will join her husband on the return trip to their home at Havre, Mont.

Walker hall never presented a gayer picture than last night when some 75 or 80 members of society in the city enjoyed a dancing party given by Mr. and Mrs. George D. LaBar. The guests vied with each other in their commendation of the manner in which they were entertained and all proclaim that it was an event which has eclipsed anything of the kind in the mid-winter social season. Graham's full orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and the light fantastic was tripped with hearty enjoyment until a late hour.

A. M. Opsahl who recently bought from Mrs. Dressen her two lots on Seventh street has disposed of one of the lots to C. M. Patek, the furniture dealer. CHAPTER XIII—Continued

One afternoon he left his office early, and, instead of going at once to Plainsville, told his driver to take him to his house, since he had need of a bag that was in his rooms there. And while he was in his room his telephone rang.

"Long distance call for Mr. Hardin," he heard, when he answered. "Transferred from your office, Mr. Hardin, Party is calling from Newton and wants you to pay for the call. Is that all right?"

"All right—yes. Hurry it up, that's all," he said, impatiently.

"Here you are—go ahead," said the operator.

A thin, strange voice sounded in his ear.

"Mr. Hardin? Mr. Philip Hardin?"

"Yes—yes. Who is this?"

"You wouldn't know the name, Mr. Hardin. I'm one who saw you a long time ago. One night in a place where the lights went out. Do you know what I mean?"

"There she is, boss," he said.

Phil was trembling with excitement.

"Yes! Yes—go on!"

"I was there, and so was another party. This other party's on his way to see you now. He gets in on the train that gets to your city at 4:45. He's going straight to your office. You'd better arrange to see him."

"Why should I?"

"You'll be sorry if you don't. Do you know who I mean by B.?"

"Yes. You mean—"

"Careful, boss. Telephones aren't so awful private, remember. This party carries a letter it'll be a good thing for you to have—see? You can have it—at a price. He'll tell you all about that. Name of Smith, this party. Better arrange to see him."

"I'll see him—of course. How much do you want?"

"He'll tell you. And if you don't want to buy there are those who will. This party, name of Smith, is going to try to see you first. Then, if he can't, he's going to see B. A word to the wise—eh, boss? And a letter in the hand's worth two in the B—what?"

"Yes—but—"

There was a click in his ear. And when, frantically, he called back to Central he got only:

"The party you were talking with has hung up."

He could only wait—wait and telephone orders to his office that if a man named Smith came, asking for him, he was to be sent to his home immediately. But his waiting was done in a fever of impatience, and, as five o'clock approached, with an eye constantly on the clock.

At last there was a ring at the front door. He answered it himself; flung open the door and saw a man standing on the step—an unprepossessing man, in shabby clothes, with a three-day stubble of black beard on his chin.

"I want to see Mr. Hardin—Mr. Philip Hardin," said the stranger.

"Come in!" said Phil. "I'm Mr. Hardin."

"Got to have proof of that, boss," said the other.

Angrily, impatiently, Phil turned out the contents of a pocket—letters, an automobile license card, identification enough to enable him to cash a check in a strange bank. The other nodded.

"Kay O, boss," he said, in a hoarse voice that spoke of much whiskey drinking. "Name of Smith. Maybe you heard by 'phone I was coming?"

"I did. Yes. What is it you want? Let me see this letter you brought?"

"Not so fast, boss. Not quite so fast."

Deliberately, and with painstaking care, Smith took a packet, wrapped in oil silk, from his pocket. From it he took two or three folded papers. One of these he tapped, significantly.

"There she is, boss," he said. "The original, dyed in the wool, genuine, itself and not a moving picture, letter! And there is a copy!"

Phil snatched at the crudely typed sheet.

"Then the lights went out, and everyone took a crack at everyone else," he read. "I got beaned on the conk, and I beat it while the beating was good. And here's the joke. They was a lot of collegers there, and one of them thought he'd killed me! And I was willing, because Pete had it in for me and was going to frame me and have me sent up. So I let them go on thinking they'd done me in, and Harry and Buck told Pete they'd pulled me out and buried me, quiet, so there wouldn't be no trouble, that might get the join pulled. But I get a laugh whenever I think of that colleger thinking he'd croaked me, and being scared pink every time he seen a bull looking at him."

When he had finished reading Phil stared at Smith.

"Well!" he said. "What good does this do me?"

"Well, that's to be figured out, ain't it, boss? Suppose we think a bit first about what harm it could do you. Suppose I give this letter to John Ballard?"

"On the other hand—suppose you take this letter—first slipping me five thousand berries—we don't want much—just five grand. What's to stop you from putting it on the fire?"

"I see—" Phil drew a long breath. "But — even so — that doesn't bring us any nearer to proving that Ballard did kill a man."

"You think of everything, don't you, boss?" said Smith, with pretended admiration. "Well, suppose I said that for another five grand—and that's only ten in all—me and a friend of mine would go on the stand and swear we seen this Ballard croak Rudy, and that we was the guys what buried him afterward?"

"Suppose Johnson appeared and proved you were lying?"

"He won't—never fear. He's dead now, if he wasn't then. No. It's safe enough, boss. It's an open and shut case for you."

Phil hesitated. Then, abruptly, he nodded.

"Five thousand now—five thousand if and when you have to testify against Ballard?"

"Fair enough. For five grand now I slip you the letter. For five grand more me and my pal go into court whenever you give the word."

"All right." Phil reached for his checkbook. Smith threw up his hands.

"No checks, boss! Gosh—what'che thinkin' about? We don't either one of us want anyone knowing we've had this little talk, do we?"

"Right!" said Phil. "Wait—I can get the cash. Wait a minute. I'll send for it."

LOCALS LOST A HEARTBREAKER TO WADENA SATURDAY, DEFEATED 10-8

WISE AND GUIN CONTRIBUTE MUCH SCORING TO FINAL COUNTS OF BRAINERD

Brainerd defeated Little Falls in a neck and neck battle Friday night by a score of 16-15. It was the closest game that the locals have played this season and furnished plenty of excitement for the spectators. Both of the teams played on even terms throughout the game and it was anybody's battle until the final whistle blew.

The game started with a flash with both teams showing wonderful offensive work. Little Falls was the first to start the scoring and caged a free throw. This, however, they followed up with a field goal making the score 3-0. The local five then scored thus making the score on more even terms. Wise was the first to contribute to the scoring. The game then see sawed back and forth and the half ended with the total count 8-8. Little Falls came back again in the second half and were again the first to start the scoring but the Blue and White cagers were not to be so easily played with and the clash became more exciting as the two old rivals battled their way through the remaining minutes of play.

Those who did the scoring for the locals are: Wise, 4 field goals and 1 free throw, Fitzharris, 1 field goal and 3 free throws, Lowe 1 field goal. A chartered bus carried a good number of enthusiastic local students to the game who did their share by executing yell after yell for the Blue and White.

The lineup:

Brainerd—Wise, rf; Fitzharris, lf; Guin, c; DeRocher, rg; Lowe, lg.

Little Falls—Teeri, rf; Gierok, lf; Bolander, c; Hall, rg; Keeler, lg

Wadena 10, Brainerd 8

The Blue and White cagers lost a heartbreaker last Saturday night when they met defeat at the hands of the Wadena five. The game was rather rough throughout thus making good team work quite impossible. The local five had considerable trouble in making their free throws and missed many that resulted in putting them on the small end of the score.

Wadena counted three field goals before the locals could settle down and hold their opponents. Fitzharris then contributed a free throw thus making the score 6 to 1 in Wadena's favor. Wadena then kept her lead throughout the half which ended with the score 8-4. Throughout the second half, Guin contributed the only field goal of that period and the Blue and White cagers fought valiantly to put themselves in the lead but were unable to overcome the start that the Wadena cagers obtained during the first period. However it did look as though the locals would tie the score late in the last period when they counted a field goal.

Wadena had a large crowd of students with their band which contributed a great deal to the excitement. The two yelling squads along with the band added much spirit to the occasion.

The lineup:

Brainerd—Wise and Fitzharris, forwards; Lowe and DeRocher, guards; Guin, center.

Wadena—Zosel and Brownsey, forwards; McBride and Zuehlke, guards; Young, center.

Substitutes: Brainerd, Hautala for Guin, Barnes for Lowe.

Substitutes: Wadena, Nutting for Young.

Referee, Brockway of Staples.

Substitutes: Brainerd, Orth for Guin.

Substitutes: Litle Falls, Leimers for Gierok, Ott for Leimers.

Juniors!

Sylvia Ericson, Irene Molstad, Collette Mraz, Henry Viken, Milford Downie and Dale Sanders have been appointed by the president to collect the remaining dues of the Juniors. A row has been assigned to each, and the money is already beginning to come in. Part of the dues have been paid, as was necessary, for the staging of a picnic and party. Of course, the Juniors must realize the responsibility of the on coming Senior Banquet and get their dues in as quickly as possible. Those assigned will let each individual know to whom he—or she must pay his dues. If everyone responds as quickly as some have already, the class will have a good basis on which to start work for the Junior Movie which will be given soon.

"AND ALONG CAME A BLACKBIRD AND—"

Once upon a time there was a little girl who was very athletically inclined, incidentally, by her outdoor activities, rendered immune to the cold. One cold, cold, my but it was cold, winter she braved for three whole months the wintry blasts, her head protected solely by her bountiful and beautiful tresses. Then one cold, cold, (ah, but it was bitter cold) day seeing by her little thermometer the astounding coldity (I coined that word) of the weather and going over in retrospect the far journey she had so often traveled to the scene of her day's labor (Certainly she worked!) she decided after much consideration that it would probably be safer for her to don her much neglected bonnet. Sallying forth in the face of this icy air, and the frozen-faced, astonished glances of her fellow neighbors she headed resolutely for her destination. Nearing the end of the long journey, a queer sensation akin to that of numbness began to make itself felt in her athletically shaped (?) nose. Upon closer examination there was revealed to her horrified, and oh how saddened, gaze a curiously white area on the tip of her aforesaid nose. With the application of some life-saving snow and a quick trip to the warm "labor-docks," the endangered member was saved.

As a result of this harrowing experience our heroine resolved in a resolute tone to never again be disgraced by being seen wearing a hat. In secret conference she stated it to be her belief that Jack Frost had been offended by her using her hat and had retaliated by nipping her nose to show her the error of her ways. WHO IS SHE?

How to Attain Success

By LIL BERTRAM

The first fella says, "thirsty?" nd then the 2nd fella said "No, fonday," which brought us out of our coma, as it were, to the realization of the fact that today is worklay for Lil' Bertie—must write and ell you people what is happenin' and why it did it. Of course it really isn't so much work because I don't make it so. I never really work—I play at things—work is only a useful sort of enjoyment of yourself if you will have it that way. Of course, you've got to be careful in selectin' what you're gonna play at. Now if you're going to take a flyin' jump into the business world it would be profitable if you would figure out first where you're goin' to jump to. On this pt. I've got one small bit of advice which I give in pamphlet form to hopeful jumpers. Always be vice-president of the Amalgamated toothpaste Co. (or whatever it maybe). In that way no one will accuse you of being president and yet they couldn't possibly be brazen enough to say that you haven't got a chance. Be sure that the president's a healthy, leathery old chap and you've got the original play-boy position—you're not qiute pres. and yet you're not quite nothin' so you can be independent. Be democratic but firm—say, "I'm vice-president, tell it to Sweeney, he's president.'

And here's another one of the alleged funny cracks that I pick up every now and again. It seems that this fella went into a certain dept. store and she—I mean he says, "I want some underwear," and the clerk says, "how long?"

"Listen, bo, I wanta buy 'em not rent 'em," returned Pedro.

Examinations being over all those people who missed out on New Year's can take advantage of this second opportunity and make some nice resolutions.

And Lil' Bertram went to Lil' Falls too—and stood up and hollered all of the time. There was a couple roughnecks on the bus going home—which I rode because of the generosity of a couple B. H. S. girls. I do hear tell that some of our hopeful students slept in the Little Falls depot all nite because of a burnt-out bearing—and arrived home at 5 p. m. Saturday.

Till next time,

LOCAL GUARDS HELD RIVAL OFFENSE TO COMPLETE STANDSTILL LAST HALF

INTERFERENCE AND CONGESTION CAUSE BY BOTH QUINTS USING SAME SIGNALS

The Blue and White girls' quint still led the 1000 percentage column of this district by subduing the Motley aggregation, 7-2. Odds were 9-7 against Brainerd, but the locals with their fighting spirit at top notch form were unbeatable.

Motley counted first when Storhaughen sunk a field goal. Before the scorers had time to ring up the basket, Beggs piped up and tied the score. As the half was nigh to the close, Hogan of Motley fouled and Molstad took advantage by making the free throw. The half ended 3-2 with Brainerd leading with a single point.

The local guards held the rival offense to a complete standstill the last half. During the third quarter Beggs aimed the spheroid for two successful baskets which put Brainerd in a safe lead, which she held until the final whistle blew.

A great deal of interference and congestion was caused due to the fact that both quints used the same signals. Within the first few minutes of play, Brainerd had Motley baffled because they began to use the signals given by the Motley center.

No one Brainerd player can be termed outstanding, yet it is well to mention that Coach Reinertson arranged a victorious team of six stars. The night's entertainment afforded a double header when the Crosby-Ironton boys' team swamped the Motley five, 55-5.

A delicious lunch was served to the Brainerd and Crosby-Ironton teams after the games.

The line-ups:

Brainerd—Beggs, rf; Molstad, lf; Early, cf; Liners, rg; Alzant, cg; Storm, lg.

Motley—Ross, rf; Storhaugen, lf; Haymaker, cf; Johnson, rg; Montgomery, cg; Hogan, lg.

Field goals—Beggs 3, Storhaugen 1. Free throws—Molstad 1.

LOCALS LOST A HEARTBREAKER TO WADENA SATURDAY, DEFEATED 10-8

WISE AND GUIN CONTRIBUTE MUCH SCORING TO FINAL COUNTS OF BRAINERD

Brainerd defeated Little Falls in a neck and neck battle Friday night by a score of 16-15. It was the closest game that the locals have played this season and furnished plenty of excitement for the spectators. Both of the teams played on even terms throughout the game and it was anybody's battle until the final whistle blew.

The game started with a flash with both teams showing wonderful offensive work. Little Falls was the first to start the scoring and caged a free throw. This, however, they followed up with a field goal making the score 3-0. The local five then scored thus making the score on more even terms. Wise was the first to contribute to the scoring. The game then see sawed back and forth and the half ended with the total count 8-8. Little Falls came back again in the second half and were again the first to start the scoring but the Blue and White cagers were not to be so easily played with and the clash became more exciting as the two old rivals battled their way through the remaining minutes of play.

Those who did the scoring for the locals are: Wise, 4 field goals and 1 free throw, Fitzharris, 1 field goal and 3 free throws, Lowe 1 field goal.

A chartered bus carried a good number of enthusiastic local students to the game who did their share by executing yell after yell for the Blue and White.

The lineup:

Brainerd—Wise, rf; Fitzharris, lf; Guin, c; DeRocher, rg; Lowe, lg.

Wadena 10, Brainerd 8

The Blue and White cagers lost a heartbreaker last Saturday night when they met defeat at the hands of the Wadena five. The game was rather rough throughout thus making good team work quite impossible. The local five had considerable trouble in making their free throws and missed many that resulted in putting them on the small end of the score.

Wadena counted three field goals before the locals could settle down and hold their opponents. Fitzharris then contributed a free throw thus making the score 6 to 1 in Wadena's favor. Wadena then kept her lead throughout the half which ended with the score 8-4. Throughout the second half, Guin contributed the only field goal of that period and the Blue and White cagers fought valiantly to put themselves in the lead but were unable to overcome the start that the Wadena cagers obtained during the first period. However, it did look as though the locals would tie the score late in the last period when they counted a field goal.

Wadena had a large crowd of students with their band which contributed a great deal to the excitement. The two yelling squads along with the band added much spirit to the occasion.

The lineup:

Brainerd—Wise and Fitzharris, forwards; Lowe and DeRocher, guards; Guin, center.

Wadena—Zosel and Brownsey, forwards; McBride and Zuehlke, guards; Young, center.

Substitutes: Brainerd, Hautala for Guin, Barnes for Lowe.

Substitutes: Wadena, Nutting for Young.

Referee, Brockway of Staples.

Substitutes: Brainerd, Orth for Guin.

Substitutes: Litle Falls, Leimers for Gierok, Ott for Leimers.

Juniors!

Sylvia Ericson, Irene Molstad, Collette Mraz, Henry Viken, Milford Downie and Dale Sanders have been appointed by the president to collect the remaining dues of the Juniors. A row has been assigned to each, and the money is already beginning to come in. Part of the dues have been paid, as was necessary, for the staging of a picnic and party. Of course, the Juniors must realize the responsibility of the on coming Senior Banquet and get their dues in as quickly as possible. Those assigned will let each individual know to whom he—or she must pay his dues. If everyone responds as quickly as some have already, the class will have a good basis on which to start work for the Junior Movie which will be given soon.

"AND ALONG CAME A BLACKBIRD AND—"

Once upon a time there was a little girl who was very athletically inclined, incidentally, by her outdoor activities, rendered immune to the cold. One cold, cold, my but it was cold, winter she braved for three whole months the wintry blasts, her head protected solely by her bountiful and beautiful tresses. Then one cold, cold, (ah, but it was bitter cold) day seeing by her little thermometer the astounding coldity (I coined that word) of the weather and going over in retrospect the far journey she had so often traveled to the scene of her day's labor (Certainly she worked!) she decided after much consideration that it would probably be safer for her to don her much neglected bonnet. Sallying forth in the face of this icy air, and the frozen-faced, astonished glances of her fellow neighbors she headed resolutely for her destination. Nearing the end of the long journey, a queer sensation akin to that of numbness began to make itself felt in her athletically shaped (?) nose. Upon closer examination there was revealed to her horrified, and oh how saddened, gaze a curiously white area on the tip of her aforesaid nose. With the application of some life-saving snow and a quick trip to the warm "labor-docks," the endangered member was saved.

As a result of this harrowing experience our heroine resolved in a resolute tone to never again be disgraced by being seen wearing a hat. In secret conference she stated it to be her belief that Jack Frost had been offended by her using her hat and had retaliated by nipping her nose to show her the error of her ways. WHO IS SHE?

SPEAKER AND TY COBB IN A COMEBACK

RETURNING TO HONORS IN BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL

COMMISSIONER LANDIS TO ISSUE A STATEMENT SHORTLY

COUNSEL OF TWO PLAYERS CONFERRED WITH BASEBALL CZAR

By CLARK B.KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Likelihood that Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, discharged managers of American League baseball clubs, would be returned to an honorable position in baseball loomed today following an announcement by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis that he would issue a statement on the Cobb-Speaker matter later in the week.

Cobb's attorney, Judge James Murfin of Detroit and Speaker's counsel, William Boyd of Cleveland, conferred with Judge Landis yesterday and left for home last night. Neither ball player was present at the conference with the baseball commissioner. It was not definitely known but surmised that the attorneys threatened to go into court to force Cobb and Speaker back into baseball if Landis' ruling is not favorable to the star outfielders.

If both players are vindicated of the charges brought against them and taken back into baseball, it is believed that several clubs will bid for their services. Detroit, Washington and New York are said to be anxious to acquire Speaker, and one rumor has it that Cobb will go to Cleveland in exchange for Speaker.

Cobb if given a clean bill of health by Landis may not play baseball this season. He said before leaving Chicago last night that he contemplated taking a European trip.

RAINBOWS MEET FOLEY SPECIALS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

FIRST APPEARANCE OF HOME TEAM SINCE RED WING GAME

RAINBOWS IMPROVED GREATLY BY RECENT ROAD TRIP OF SIX GAMES

The Rainbows will meet the fast Foley Specials in a game at the high school gym tomorrow night, the first appearance of the local independent team since the Red Wing game. Since that game the Rainbows have made a road trip of six games, during which they improved some 100 percent, according to Manager Peterson.

The road trip unearthed a new star in Nutting, who blazed the way in several of the games on the road, and who will prove a great running mate to Engbretson in the rest of the games this year. This pair will be on tap for the fans to watch tomorrow night, and a classy pair of forwards they make.

Larson will probably get the call at center, his work in the last three games on the road proving that he is capable of handling that place. Ziebell and Beresford will be ready to step in at any minute. Ziebell is still nursing a weak ankle, sustained in the Red Wing game, but it is mending in fine shape, and he will be ready to go.

The fans of the towns visited by the Rainbows last week were loud in their praise of the work of the guard trio, Welsh, Fitzsimmons and Orth. These three proved themselves capable of taking a lot of hard knocks, and keeping on going.

Foley's ace is Ward, a former St. Thomas college star, now coaching the Foley high school. The rest of the team is fast and shifty, worthy to oppose the Rainbows in this game.

The preliminary game will be between the little Flying Aces and the Little Tigers. Both these teams are fast and a good game is assured. Their line-ups will be announced later.

The preliminary game starts at 7:30 p. m., with the Rainbow-Foley clash immediately following. Admission charges are twenty-five and thirty-five cents.

ORGANIZERS OF HOCKEY LEAGUE MEET TONIGHT

WILL FORMULATE PLANS, RULES, REGULATIONS OF CITY HOCKEY SCHEDULE

FIVE TEAMS SIGNIFY INTENTIONS OF ENTERING LOCAL LEAGUE

A hockey league organization meeting will take place tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. when plans, rules, and regulations will be formulated in respect to the organization of a Brainerd hockey league.

Five teams have already signified intentions of entering the proposed league, Southside, Northside, Shops, West Brainerd, and Business Men.

It is the intention to draw up a schedule and start the league season immediately. Games will be played on week nights at the Brainerd Outdoor club rink.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. —Adv.

SPEAKER AND TY COBB IN A COMEBACK

RETURNING TO HONORS IN BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL

COMMISSIONER LANDIS TO ISSUE A STATEMENT SHORTLY

COUNSEL OF TWO PLAYERS CONFERRED WITH BASEBALL CZAR

By CLARK B.KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Likelihood that Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, discharged managers of American League baseball clubs, would be returned to an honorable position in baseball loomed today following an announcement by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis that he would issue a statement on the Cobb-Speaker matter later in the week.

Cobb's attorney, Judge James Murfin of Detroit and Speaker's counsel, William Boyd of Cleveland, conferred with Judge Landis yesterday and left for home last night. Neither ball player was present at the conference with the baseball commissioner. It was not definitely known but surmised that the attorneys threatened to go into court to force Cobb and Speaker back into baseball if Landis' ruling is not favorable to the star outfielders.

If both players are vindicated of the charges brought against them and taken back into baseball, it is believed that several clubs will bid for their services. Detroit, Washington and New York are said to be anxious to acquire Speaker, and one rumor has it that Cobb will go to Cleveland in exchange for Speaker.

Cobb if given a clean bill of health by Landis may not play baseball this season. He said before leaving Chicago last night that he contemplated taking a European trip.

Ban Johnson, ordered by his doctor and by American League owners to "take a rest," will leave Chicago and go to a sanitarium, it was learned today. On advice of his physician, Johnson has refused to see newspapermen since owners of American League clubs shelved him Sunday night.

MICKIE SAYS—

Not All Bad Lands Desert

The Bad lands of South Dakota cannot, strictly speaking, be classed as a desert region. The term is somewhat misleading, as the land is fertile, except where it is so steep that vegetation is washed off. In level portions buffalo grass grows and supports great herds of cattle. Good water is usually found in shallow wells and considerable farming is carried on.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can not drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. —Adv

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. —Advt

Thrills Abound in Western Romance Starring Tom Mix

Surrounded by an excellent cast and supplied with one of the most thrilling stories of the West ever brought to the silversheet, Tom Mix, as Jeff Boyden, gives a remarkably fine performance in "Hard Boiled," Fox Films version of Shannon Fife's romantic tale of a dude ranch, which is showing at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Wednesday.

MICKIE SAYS—

Not All Bad Lands Desert

The Bad lands of South Dakota cannot, strictly speaking, be classed as a desert region. The term is somewhat misleading, as the land is fertile, except where it is so steep that vegetation is washed off. In level portions buffalo grass grows and supports great herds of cattle. Good water is usually found in shallow wells and considerable farming is carried on.

Sound of Thunder

Thunder is rarely heard at a greater distance than twelve miles from its origin.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. —Advt

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can not drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. —Adv
